Dear Friends,

We want to thank everyone who helped make our 20th Anniversary year such an incredible period of celebration and growth for Music Maker. Our biggest year of performance ever kicked off at the Lincoln Center Out of Doors Series in August 2014. Music Maker’s Homecoming celebration, here in NC in October, was the largest gathering of Music Maker artists ever assembled. The music and camaraderie were truly inspirational; we extend our deepest thanks to everyone who joined us and to the Artist Sponsors, the National Endowment for the Arts, the NC Humanities Council, the Mary Duke Biddle Foundation and the Orange Arts Commission for making it possible.

The music rolled on to Roots N Blues N BBQ, Byron Bay Blues Festival, a series at the Mars Theater in GA, Winnipeg Folk Festival, Capitol Blues Night, Music in the Gardens at Duke, our new Freight Train Blues series in Carrboro, NC and dozens more. Another great year got under way with the Music Maker Revue at the Newport Folk Festival with Dom Flemons.

Our new book, We Are the Music Makers!, along with our 20th Anniversary celebrations were featured on PBS News Hour, CBS Evening News, NPR Weekend Edition, the Wall Street Journal, the Tavis Smiley Show and Dan Akroyd’s Ellwood’s Bluesmobile. Our release of Dom Flemons’ new CD, Prospect Hill, landed him on Fresh Air with Terry Gross and great reviews domestically and in Europe.

Our We Are the Music Makers! exhibit was viewed by 82,000 people at venues throughout the country. The two sets of panels are touring through 2017. A new exhibit, Our Living Past: A Platinum Portrait of Music Maker, will debut and begin traveling this fall.

Our Mission: Helping Musicians Make It
As Music Maker heads into its third decade, we remain excited about all the artists that are still with us and the many new partner artists that continue to join our journey.

After the CBS Evening News piece aired, we received a wonderful package from the daughter-in-law of an artist from Birmingham, Alabama named Sam Frazier Jr. Sam grew up with blues legends Slim Harpo and Sonny Boy Williamson performing at his mom’s juke joint. Sam can sing and play the blues and R&B, but his real passion is country music. After moving back to his father’s coal mining shack after 20 years on the West Coast, Sam had lost his hometown connections and faded from the music scene. He began to feel isolated and did not know where to turn.

We reached out to Sam and he has now visited us twice in Hillsborough, NC to work on a new record, performed with us in Clarksdale, MS and at Duke University, and has joined our Music Maker Blues Revue. We are currently working to help lift Sam out of dire poverty, so he can concentrate on his art. We have helped him purchase diabetic shoes, harmonicas, and performance suits, and we are working to move him into safer living conditions. We are thrilled that he wants to partner with us and move forward to a brighter future.

Ironing Board Sam is reaching new heights at 75 years young as the new spokesperson for Faultless Spray Starch (don’t miss the commercials online!) and he has an upcoming release, Super Spirit, on Big Legal Mess Records debuting October 2nd.

The old vinyl records are back! There is nothing like spinning a record on your turntable and feeling the warmth and purity of tone. With the help of donors Al and Caryn Bunshaft we have issued a limited edition of just 500 Etta Baker, Railroad Bill LPs. The beautiful design by Bruno Brussard, makes this release a collectible work of art!

Saying goodbye is the most difficult part of our work with senior musicians and this year was particularly sad because we lost one of our founding artists, Captain Luke. We find consolation knowing his music touched the lives of so many music lovers around the world.

WE THANK ALL OF YOU for making this 20th Anniversary year so successful. We would especially like to welcome the 1,200 new contributors to our cause. You make the music happen- it is through your support that Music Maker is doing more than ever before and increased our program activities by 30% this year!

Please visit our website, join our email list and follow our blog to learn how you can be more involved. It is through these unsung heroes of music that we learn about our cultural heritage. Please continue your support and keep on lovin’ the blues!

Warmest Regards,
Tim and Denise Duffy

Our Living Past: A Platinum Portrait of Music Maker: For 35 years, photographer Tim Duffy has forged a unique vision immortalizing Southern musical heroes and the world in which they live. This compelling collection of images was made with the wet-plate collodion process, which Tim has explored with the assistance of Aaron Greenhood. These photographs were then taken to breathtaking heights with platinum/palladium printing.

This exhibit is sponsored and produced by 21st Editions® and Steven Albahari. (21steditions.com) Original wet-plates from this project have been collected by the Smithsonian Museum of African American History and Culture and the Morris Museum of Art.

Through 20 years of dedication to documentation and performance, Music Maker has disproved the myth that all the greats were gone. We are bringing to light many talented musicians previously shrouded by poverty and geography; this year we welcomed Peewee Hayes, Charles Hayes, George Stanciel, Sam Frazier, Jr.

Brothers Charles and Peewee Hayes from Racine, Wisconsin, learned how to play on their father’s guitar while he was away at work. They are both hard driving guitar players who have spent their lives playing in small clubs throughout the country. Music Maker has granted acoustic and electric guitars to Peewee and booked both artists on several summer shows. Hillsborough, NC © T. Duffy

Kelley Breiding (left) and Martha Spencer (right) live in Appalachia, they are both accomplished traditional musicians. Collectively, they play in the Spencer Branch Band. Music Maker is working with them to connect with traditional musicians in Appalachia. Hillsborough, NC 2015 © T. Duffy
Sam Frazier, Jr. grew up in Edgewater, AL, a small mining camp. His father was a coal miner and his mother ran a tavern out of the back of their house. It was there that Sonny Boy Williams gave Sam a harmonica and showed him how to play his first notes. He has joined Music Maker on a few shows and we are working on a new record for him produced by Dom Flemons. Music Maker helped him purchase diabetic shoes and performance clothes. Hillsborough, NC 2015 © T. Duffy

Gorgeous George Stancell from Arlington, Texas performed with us in Australia this year at the Byron Bay Blues Festival. He played nightly for years in his club in the suburbs of Milwaukee while working by day in the railyards. Coolangatta, Queensland, Australia 2015 © A. Greenhood

Without the zealous efforts of volunteers and interns, we could not keep Music Maker’s programs going. You can find these generous individuals transporting artists, fixing cars, roofs and mobile homes, stuffing envelopes, selling CDs at gigs, designing artwork for albums, posters and even billboards, shooting photos and video, writing blog posts, organizing our archives and so much more. We cannot thank them enough, so THANKS AGAIN!

“Being able to mix and mingle with some of the most talented guys and gals who bring us the real, true Southern Blues and to hear their music and first hand stories of how MMRF has helped them personally was absolutely life changing.” – Kat Leon, Volunteer

“Working with the great team at MMRF to preserve such a treasured musical heritage is an honor! It’s incredibly rewarding to work in a place that’s making a difference.” – Jennifer Hicks, Summer 2015 Intern
